

ICPC Asia Dhaka Contest 2023 Rules and Regulations for Preliminary Contest

Dear Participant,

On behalf of ICPC Dhaka Regional, 2023 judging team, we thank you for registering. The preliminary contest will take place at 3 PM on 13th October, 2023 (Friday). There will also be a mock session before the preliminary contest. That will take place at 4 PM on 11th October, 2023 (Wednesday). We will email platform detail, ID... etc. soon. The login ID for mock and preliminary should be the same. If you haven't got your ID/password before the mock session or face any problem regarding logging in, please mail us at contest@bubt.edu.bd

The preliminary contest will decide which teams qualify for the ICPC Dhaka Regional, 2023 hosted by Bangladesh University of Business and Technology on 04th November, 2023.

Each and every team participating in the preliminary contest must follow the rules and regulations given below. Universities are responsible for making sure that their teams are abiding by the rules. Failing to do so will disqualify the team(s).

- It is a team contest. You are not allowed to take help from any person other than the contestants of your team.
- You are allowed to use books or online materials during the contest. But if more than one team copies from the same source code available online and that leads to plagiarism charges, the teams will be penalized.
- You cannot use any artificial intelligence (AI) chatbot to solve the contest problem.
- You cannot use any Q&A site such as stackoverflow or similar to ask for help from others.
- You cannot post your solution or give any hint about any problem during the contest. Even if you are using any pastebin site, it is your responsibility that it remains private only to you and your team members.
- It is advised that the teams from the same university participate from their respective university campus so that none of them gets any unfair advantages.

ANY VIOLATION OF THE RULES AND REGULATIONS WILL RESULT IN YOUR TEAM'S DISQUALIFICATION.